The Justice George Lewis Ruffin Society is an organization of criminal justice professionals in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Founded in 1964 and affiliated with the School of Criminology and Criminal Justice, College of Social Sciences and Humanities at Northeastern University, its objectives are to encourage a greater understanding between the minority communities of Massachusetts and all of the criminal justice professions spanning the entire spectrum of interests from defense to prosecution to judicial and executive branch, and to promote the advancement of minorities within the field of criminal justice. The Ruffin Society is devoted to the improvement of the law, the legal system, and the administration of justice through the presentation of convocations, seminars, training courses, workshops and the production of the "The Long Road to Justice" exhibition and educational platform which documents the history of African Americans in the Massachusetts court system.
